"For me, designing is smart thinking that results in a physical product: a fusion of quality, ability and beauty. A product that serves you and enlightens your environment."

The starting point for a design is a personal discovery and fascination. A story, shape, material or production technique.

This brings original concepts for new product designs.

Frederik Roijé is known for minimalistic and clean lines, keeping the essence of the concept in the foreground.

Creating design with smart solutions, combining traditional and new techniques; a product for serial production arises.

Everyday products with its own personal story arose from the passion and joy of creating a special environment and experience.
